During classical antiquity (around 2,600 years), which was the pre-Islamic era, the Qur'an was not written on paper. The Arabs of the time created the alphabet based on Aramaic. These letters were written on wooden tablets that were often placed over candles with a reed brush. This method of writing would continue to be used in schools until the Middle Ages. It was only after the Arabs took the first steps towards civilization that the Qur'an began to be handwritten on paper. This new writing medium proved ideal for spreading the Word of Allah. In several parts of the Qur'an, Allah instructs people to take a pledge or oath on paper, and place the tablets over the hands or forehead of the person. The paper is then burned to ashes so that nothing remains of them after they are gone. This type of oath appears in the Qur'an as many as nine times. The sunnah of the Prophet is also found in many hadith and several books of law. This art is not only for Quran, but also for any other holy book. It can be made for any sacred book as a remembrance of Allah's book. The paper can be printed with any Islamic Calligraphy screensaver image you like. You can visit our site. Also, you can download the Islamic Calligraphy screensaver as a pdf file. Do you want to know how to make a prayer paper? Make a shari you like or any of the Islamic prayer paper that you like.
