Gameplay The gameplay of PocketWheels is fairly simple. You are a small ball which must avoid obstacles while making its way to the end of the track. You can control your character's speed by pressing left or right on the D-pad while you turn left or right by tilting the analog stick. Your main weapon is the ring, which you fire by holding left on the D-pad. The ring is charged when it is facing up, and when you release it, it launches at the first obstacle it hits. If it manages to hit an obstacle, it ricochets off and another takes its place. When it finally hits the edge of the track, it starts its final journey and at that point you can fire it again. There are a variety of obstacles and breakable surfaces on the track that make you slow or decelerate. Some obstacles are walls, some are breakable, and some force you to slow down until you run into them. If you crash into a wall, you start to lose speed. If you hit a breakable surface, you lose all speed and fall down on the ground. If you slow down too much, you are stuck on the surface and need to restart from the beginning of the track. Your main weapon is the ring, which you fire by pressing left on the D-pad. You have to be a certain distance away from the first obstacle to start charging the ring, but can get more charges if you fire the ring into an obstacle. Once it has one charge, you can shoot it, though you need to charge the ring again to fire it again. If you run out of rings, you are forced to restart. There are some other items on the track to help you out. The start and finish line are both covered in rings, and if you have enough rings, you can move through them to get to the start or finish line faster. The cones you fire off can be used to launch you into the air, where you can glide back to the ground. If you hit an obstacle, the ring that hit it will eject into the air. If you throw the ring while gliding, you can catch it and fire it again. You need to avoid obstacles, and there are an overwhelming number of them. Each track is broken up into a set number of laps, and you have to get all of the laps done without dying. If you get hit by an obstacle, you will lose speed, but you also lose all

What's new in Freefall 3050AD:

** **THIRD** The Love of God abides with a person forever, and no person is able to cast off God's love. It remains in the person who is faithful to God and whose conscience is as clear as pure water. —1 JOHN 4:19, AMPC **O** NE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT THINGS our church community has done in recent years is to inventory the gifts we give to this growing congregation. We are in the business of being a missional congregation whose greatest end is that others will come to follow Christ and be reborn into the new creation. Within this context, the prayer of praise for our life-giving relationships is one of the most powerful tools at our disposal. The prayer of praise is important because, as an act of heart-based thanksgiving, the act of giving signals our recognition of and commitment to the reality of God's love. It tells the rest of the world that we know, believe, and are committed to the fact that the God who loves us and died for us is worthy of our best. I don't know about you, but I am struck each time we are able to identify yet another life-giving relationship within the church community. Our current inventory of life-giving relationships stands at nine. Here it is: The Church of the Saviour Fellowship | The Life and Leadership Committee | Relationships with the Local Churches in Leadership | The Local Churches | The Pastors/Directors/Permanent Deacons --- | --- | --- | --- | --- Our church grove | Our local churches | The special areas in which we live, specifically the gospel and the Gospel Center | Our congregants Our regional churches | Our key people in placement ministries | Our Prayer and Praise Team | Our church families You might agree that this is at least partial. If you do, you are making progress. Notice carefully what we are not including, or what is missing from the list. Where are the life-giving relationships we deserve, are assigned by God, and that are in the process of being restored and renewed within our God-given calling? While these two lists are quite different, they are not necessarily contradictory. If that is the case, you may discover that some new, previously unidentified, life-giving relationships may actually constitute your part of these lives. A friend has been telling us to be more careful not to discount certain things we may have to
